

Devoted to the memory of
James E. Camp
1/30/47 - 3/15/09

Thanks for your consideration

Jim's friends and family would like to thank you for giving us your time and attention. Please pass on this brochure and information to others who might be interested in donating or learning about this cause.

If you are able to give a $50 donation, we will send you a bracelet (good for either gender) made from African cloth as a token of our gratitude and a sign of your support for the CAMPAign.

These bracelets, made by women at HEALing Arts, represent the value of helping others improve their situations through collective effort and education. This HEAL Africa program dedicates itself to helping women gain new living skills and pay for their medical care by teaching them how to sew.

The women at HEALing Arts come, oftentimes so damaged by violence, that they must stay for a year or more in the hospital to heal properly. Because of this program, the women leave not only healed, but with a skill that can help them improve the quality of their lives as they work steadily to rebuild them.

For more information about HEAL Africa, and its support of women visit:

www.healafrika.org

TO CONTRIBUTE (all donations are tax deductible through the nonprofit organization FCMC Foundation):

Send a check payable to "FCMC Foundation" to the address below:

The CAMPAign
FCMC Foundation
214 Peach Orchard Road
McConnellsburg, PA 17233

Visit the FCMC Foundation website:
<http://www.fcmcpa.org/foundation.html>

Click "Online Giving" at the bottom of the menu to make a secure payment via credit card or Networkforgood.
Type: "CAMPAign" in the "Designation" text box on the donation form, so FCMC knows how to allocate the funds.

Call the FCMC Foundation:
(717) 485-6322
to make a donation to the CAMPAign by credit card.

Call this number for any questions related to the CAMPAign or donations.

Jim Camp spent his life ministering to the needs of others through his medical service. This CAMPAign aims to carry on his work and build on his legacy. We wish to honor his memory and his promises, and to enable Congolese to address their medical and educational needs.

Jim worked as both an anesthetist and a hospital administrator for a rural (DRC) Democratic Republic of the Congo medical facility from 1982 until 1990. He then moved his family to the USA, but he never forgot the medical needs of the Congolese; he sent equipment to hospitals and supported several medical students' schooling.

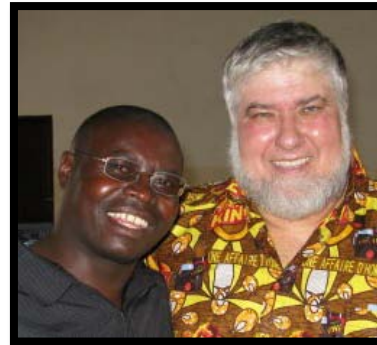

In January 2009, Jim traveled to the DRC, where he assessed some equipment needs and built cooperative relationships with organizations doing good work. He is pictured on the front cover of this brochure standing outside of HEAL Africa, a medical (NGO) Non-governmental organization where he often donated time and resources.

Jim was providing support to a number of different medical personnel in DRC when he passed suddenly in March 2009. We have innovated some projects to help continue his support of the people he loved and institutions whose work he valued so highly.

Project 1: Scholarship for Nursing School Students

History: In the 1980s, Jim helped start a nursing school in a rural part of DRC (Rwanguba), where educational opportunities tend to be very limited. In January, Jim visited the school and met with students worried about tuition inflation. He realized the high impact of having to pay an extra $50 in a place where there are no loans available, and $50 is greater than the average monthly salary.

How the donations will be used: This scholarship provides tuition assistance for the nursing school students in Rwanguba. The money will be given directly to the institution and $50 applied to each student's account, so that everyone will benefit equally. The CAMPAign helped to fulfill Jim's promise and provide $2000 in 2009 for 40 students, $50 each. We hope to renew this tuition contribution annually, and keep the scholarship active and funded.

Project 2: Support for Medical Technician, Bizi

History: The Camp family has known Bizi for over 20 years and has long witnessed his patience, generosity, technical savvy, intelligence, and commitment to peaceful relations. Bizi makes positive impacts and joins cooperative efforts wherever he's present. Jim supported Bizi by funding his medical engineering degree, and encouraged him to work for HEAL Africa, where he currently serves as the technical director. He heads a team that repairs and maintains almost everything at the HEAL Africa medical facility. Because he often works with donated and outdated equipment, the need for his services is great and he often needs extra resources to help fund his work.

How the donations will be used: In order to support both HEAL Africa and Bizi, Jim set up a regular donation to HEAL Africa dedicated specifically to providing Bizi's salary. He donated $300 per month or $3,600 yearly. Our aim is to simply maintain this salary contribution through HEAL Africa to assist Bizi.

Project 3: The Jitoe Project—Education in DRC

History: In Swahili Jitoe means "give of yourself." Jim, like many people in DRC, used this expression often when thanking people with limited material resources who nevertheless gave freely and fully of their time, efforts, and talents. Jim's daughter, Becky, and son-in-law, Jeff, wish to do just that. They visited DRC with Jim in 2009, felt called to help, and have found a way to contribute, if they can secure enough funding to support their project. Mindful of the educational needs in DRC, they want to offer their time and qualifications in the 2011 year to a university in Congo looking for instructors with their graduate degrees—English and Communications.

How the donations will be used: UCBC (Christian Bilingual University of Congo) has established an institution of higher education that is currently underfunded, which makes it reliant on volunteers and donations. The goal is to raise support for up to a year of instruction to UCBC; Jeff and Becky estimate they will need $2000 per month for cost of living, travel, and books and resources for students.

